The Indian Territory Outlook. Washington, January 22d .- The threatened conflict between United States troops and Oklahoma invaders was the subject discussion in the Senate te-day. Payne, the original leader of the Oklahoma colonists was several times expelled by the author itles from Indian Territory without loss of life. Payne died a few months ago, an he is succeeded by a man named Coucl who is represented as a desperate, reckles and determined person, at the head of ove 300 would-be settlers, fully armed and equipped. He is encamped near Still-water, and bids defiance to the Government. The Secretary of War has ordered that a force sufficient to outnumber the in vaders be massed in their front, and if th colonists refuse to peacably leave the Terri tory force will be used to eject them. The langer of a conflict is reported imminent Oklahoma is in the center of Indian Terri tory, comprising about 1.210,000 acres of the finest land in the United States. Th ertility of the soil is matchless, and the dimate mild and healthy. Oklahoma is iver, on the south by the Canadian river the east by the reservation the Kickapoos, Kiowas and Pottowat nies, and on the west by the reservation of the Cheyennes and Arapahoes. The ontest that has arisen between the settler nd the Government, Senator Vest ex ained to the Senate to-day, grows out one class of treaties negotiated by the United States with the Creeks and Semi noles in 1866. By the treaties the Govern ment bought a vast tract of land from th ribes at thirty cents per acre, and on lause provided that the land should not be cupied except by Indians or freedmer The purpose the Government then had in ew was to colonize emancipated negroe n Indian Territory. This colonization cheme failed. Subsequently part of the riginal purchase was occupied on an exbut the tract upon which Couch and hi owers desire to settle is unoccupied

The Chair ruled that the resolution should go o the Committee on Rules.

Reddy (Chairman of the Committee on State five cents per pound. I have consuited the members, and all have agreed upon it, and I hope that the reference will not be made. Some of the Senators may not have understood the resolution. It is to enable the Prison Committee to subpena witnesses and to compel their attendance to give evidence about the management and business of the prisons, and to compel business of the prisons, and to compel the production of such papers as may be necessary to properly inform our committee as to the manner of doing business there. If we are to go there and take testimony in longhand it will simply be a penny-wise and pound-foolish proceeding, because it will keep the en-tire committee there while a long-hand reporter takes the evidence, and, as is well known, we can do as much in one-day with a short-hand

If there was ample time, and the committee had nothing in the world to do, and it was necessary to furnish business, it might be proper to refer the resolution to the Committee proper to refer the resolution to the Committee on Contingent Expenses and let them determine the difference between the cost of taking down the testimony in short-hand and long-hand, and whether the Sergeant-at-Arms should go out and bring in the witnesses required. It is a question whether we shall do it in the most expeditious, cheapest and best way, or whether we shall have a lot of red-tape about it, and a great deal of circuity of action.

Lynch said he did not bereeive any inapproreat deal of circuly of action.

The reading out of these two Democrats, and their proposed exclusion from the Senatorial caucus brought Chris. Buckley to the city a couple of days ago, and the report is that he went for the scalps of some of the leaders in the movement. "If you read these men out of the party," said he, "you had better read me out, too. I am liable to be at the next State Convention [with 108 delegates?], and have something to say as to its action. If I can't elect some men to office, I can do a great deal toward defeating them." Considerable of his wrath was, it is said, uncorked over the heads of Railroad Commissioner Foote and Bill English. The potency of Mr. Buckley's argument was made manifest by the result of the caucus' deliberations on Wednesday night, when it was decided to allow Creighton and Drumm a voice in the selection of a Senatorial candidate. LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Conscience Smitten .- Wednesday morning a tramp called at the residence of J. R. Bell, at Seventeenth and M streets, and asked for something to eat. The breakfast table had just been cleared off, and the young lady of the house was engaged in washing the dishes. She invited the tramp inside, and soon set him out a nice lunch. After he had finished his meal, he thanked the young lady and departed. Some two hours later she discovered that her diamond ring was gone. She then remembered that beggreat many years, and has been known to fore washing the dishes she had taken the all the State officers sooner or later, and the ring off and laid it on a chair next the one occupied by the tramp. She felt very bad over the loss, and never expected to hear of others who verified the accounts of the the ring again. To her surprise, in the County Treasuries wherein such receipts afternoon, the tramp came back, returned the ring and told the following story: He

The Transcontinental Association-Business Concluded-Adjournment. SAN FRANCISCO, January 22d. - The Transcontinental Association concluded its iness to-day, and at 1:30 o'clock, after a love feast that extended over four hours. adjourned to meet again next August, but n what place was not designated. A number of telegrams passed between C. W. Smith, the newly-elected Commissioner, and the Association, regarding his accept ance of the position, but whether or not he will accept is still undecided. The busi ness to-day dragged considerably, the matter under discussion being the adoption of an agreement as to the rules and regula formulated under the two pool plan. A great number of side issues cropped out, and it was manifest that unless something was promptly done the session would be prolonged until to-mor-row. The result was that the sub-divisions the fact of signature being the ratification row. of the agreement. In this connection a nice problem arises, as in the event of an of the roads refusing, the work of the Cor vention goes for naught, and the pool wil be out of existence until another meeting i called. One road at least will refuse to sig unless certain concessions are granted. Thi is the Northern Pacific. The other lines in the pool will, without question, sign th agreement; but the Northern Pacific is a stumbling block. The situation is this: The pools pay the Northern Pacific a bonus of 8 per cent, on all California business, to keep the northern lines out of this city. This 8 per cent, has to be divided with the Oregon Short Line which has an eastern outlet via the Unio Pacific, and Oregon Navigation Company which has a San Francisco connection t city and Portlan 1. The Northern Pacific in conjunction with the Navigation Conany, in turn pays the Southern Pacific onus of 8 per cent. on the Portland bus ness, in order to keep the Southern Pacif ut of Portland, which is accessible to the by the Navigation Company's steamer They claim, in this connection, that the outhern Pacific should rebate a part of th bonus, as without the Navigation Comp ny's ships they would have no Portlan connection. This proposition the South ern Pacific men have so far resiste and under this state of affair as detailed, the Northern Pacifi will not sign the agreement. What pe centage of the 8 per cent, they pay to the Southern Pacific they want rebated is not nown, but it is thought to be in the neigh porhood of about one-third. The pass ger men, in Convention, succeeded Wee day in settling the differences existi between their respective lines, and will until some rupture occurs, work in har nony. The freight men did not hold meeting during the entire session, it being manifest that they would be unable to come to any agreement. "GOING DOWN HILL." a Venerable Iowan Evaded the How Greatest Difficulty Which Besets the Aged.

[Burlington (Ia.) Hawkeye.]

An account is going the rounds of the press of a woman who was so afflicted with the mutineers. The best one, ridden by the supposed Lopez, was killed, and the other two, used as pack animals, were broken down. Whatever arms they had have been thrown away. The prisoners say they were compelled to take the life of Rico as they had been defrayded by him.
